

Unified inbox. Unified community.

Thoughtful and engaged communication is key to building accountability and trust.

Let's Talk — the only enterprise-wide customer experience and intelligence platform purpose-built for education — helps hundreds of school districts across the country streamline inbound communications.

Save Time and Effort

Empower your community by offering two-way communications from all channels (email, text messages, voice mail, and web) into one unified inbox.

Self-service options like Let's Talk Assistant and Knowledge Base put information at your stakeholders' fingertips — freeing up your time and energy.

Improve Decision-Making

Use a real-time dashboard and leverage the power of artificial intelligence and predictive analytics to spot needs and trends and make proactive decisions.

Prevent Crises

Receive alerts and early warnings to prevent health, safety, and security issues before they become emergencies.

Achieve Higher Levels of Trust, Buy-in, and Engagement

Ensure greater collaboration within and across teams and empower each individual to create efficient, well-crafted responses to stakeholders.

79%

of educators say increased parent communication has a positive impact on academic outcomes.

Fortify your frontline communications

Each interaction with families is an opportunity to strengthen trust. But a haphazard communication strategy can have the opposite impact: slow, siloed responses that create barriers for families, teachers, staff, and students.

Free up Your Staff

Let's Talk Assistant — the first chatbot built specifically for K-12 school districts — reduces up to 80 percent of frontline staff resources spent answering frequently asked questions.

Equitable Access for All

Provide equitable access to customer service with automatic translation and texting capabilities for households without internet service.

“Let's Talk created a platform for us to not only gather information but to also provide timely and consistent feedback to our stakeholders.”
